■ AND TECH EVENTS

A wide-angle photograph of a crowded hackathon floor. Numerous people are seated at long tables, working intently on laptops. Some are standing, engaged in conversations or presenting. The room is filled with the energy of a collaborative event. In the background, several sponsor banners are visible, including Microsoft, QUIKEY, and LIGHTSPEED VENTURE PARTNERS. The overall atmosphere is one of focused activity and innovation.

The image shows a screenshot of the hackGSU'16 website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, FAQ, Location, Schedule, Sponsors, Twitter, Facebook, and DevPost. To the right of the navigation bar is an MLH Member badge with the number 1b. Below the navigation bar, there is a blue banner with a white box containing the text "EAT. CAFFEINATE. CODE. REPEAT." in white. To the right of the banner, the event name "hackGSU'16" is displayed in large white text, followed by the hashtag "#hackgsu2016" in teal and the date "MARCH 25-27, 2016" in red. Below the banner, a message says "Registration is over, but you can still" followed by a "Volunteer" button. A red horizontal bar with a downward arrow is positioned below this message. At the bottom of the page, there is a section titled "<!-- FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS -->" with two questions: "What is hackGSU?" and "Who can participate?". The "What is hackGSU?" section includes a paragraph about the hackathon being the inaugural Hackathon hosted by the GSU Computer Science Department's ACM & IEEE. The "Who can participate?" section includes a paragraph stating that all university students are welcome to participate, regardless of their major. In the bottom right corner, there is a large MLH logo.

A photograph of a group of people in a workshop or classroom setting. In the foreground, a person wearing a light-colored striped shirt and a lanyard is focused on a task. Behind them, a mannequin torso is mounted on a stand; the word "ctrl" is visible on its chest. To the right, two women are standing and looking towards the left. One woman wears glasses and a green t-shirt, while the other wears a dark hoodie and a name tag. A microphone is held by the woman in the hoodie. The background shows other people and equipment, suggesting a technical or creative workspace.

BUILDING

A group of approximately 15 young adults, both men and women, are posed for a group photo in front of a large, classical-style building with prominent red brickwork and white columns. They are dressed in a variety of professional and semi-professional attire, including business suits, ties, button-down shirts, and casual blazers. The group is arranged in three rows, with some individuals standing on steps or ledges.

Florida Hackers

An initiative to grow hacker culture in Florida

Who are we?

Every student has the potential to create something amazing. We facilitate that. Florida Hackers sends students from all Florida universities to hackathons around the country to create, collaborate, and connect.

Join Us!

Quick Note: Please respect each other on both the Slack Team and Facebook Group. See you there!

you're wasting your most valuable resource.

A large group photo of approximately 50 young people, mostly men, posing for a group photograph. They are wearing various t-shirts, many of which feature the MLH logo (a white wrench and screwdriver crossed) and the text "MLH HS HACKATHON". Some individuals are also wearing Intel and Android developer gear. The background shows a brick wall and some event banners.
